Response to Amendment/Arguments

2. Applicant's amendment and arguments filed on 07/02/2009 have been fully considered and they are found persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.

Art Unit: 1796

3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 1 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ogata et al., Journal of Applied Polymer Science, vol. 85, 1219-1226 (2002) (hereinafter "Ogata"). Ogata teaches blend of poly(lactic acid) with weight-average molecular of 194,000 and a cellulose ester. The blend is solvent-cast with chloroform. See Ogata, Materials, Preparations and Characterization Section, page 1220. The current invention requires a DS of 1.8 to 2.9. Ogata teaches a DS of less than 2.5 and a specific teaching of 1.52. Ogata further teaches a composition having a luminous transmittance of 40% or higher for visible light with wavelength of 500 nm. See Ogata, Fig. 2.

The basic requirements of prima facie case of obvious are: (1) there must be some suggestion or motivation, either in the reference themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art, to modify the reference or to combine reference teachings; (2) there must be a reasonable expectation of success; (3) the prior art reference (or references when combined) must teach or suggest all the claim limitations. See MPEP 2143. The Applicants further assert there is no suggestion or motivation to incorporate a comonomer in Applicant's claimed ranges into the polypropylene fibers to arrive at the material produced by Applicants' invention.

"There are three possible sources for a motivation to combine references: the nature of the problem to be solved, the teachings of the prior art, and the knowledge of persons of ordinary skill in the art." See In re Rouffet, 149 F.3d 1350, 1357, 47 USPQ2d 1453, 1457-58 (Fed. Cir. 1998). Although Ogata does not disclose in the working examples the claims DS, based on the disclosure as a whole a polymer chemist of ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to modify Ogata's examples by implementing a DS within the claim range and a wavelength of 400 vs. 500 nm is not tremendous enough to suggest that transmittance will not be greater than 40% given the data provided on Fig. 2. Such modification would be obvious because one would have a reasonable expectation of success that DS less than 2.5 as taught by Ogata would be similarly useful and applicable the working examples. Therefore, claims 1 and 5-8 are deem as being unpatentable over Ogata.

6. Claims 3-4, 9-19 and 21-24 are objected to for depending on a rejected base claim
